During min-max-width calculations percent width should be ignored. But it should be applied during layout.

This paragraph's width is in percents. It's max width should be based on content.

This paragraph's width is absolute.